Visa Application:

This takes time. Make sure you do this as soon as possible. I had to visit the US embassy multiple times but eventually got it sorted on time. Also getting an appointment at the US embassy takes time in itself. So, start as soon as you can.

Enrolment Procedure and recommended subjects:

Enrolment procedure may seem awkward at first with book bags and all that, but it is relatively straightforward once you get it. Candice (the exchange coordinator) is very friendly and will reply almost immediately. The subjects I enjoyed most were Supply Chain Management, Marketing of Innovations and Pricing. Pricing is a very difficult class to get into, if you can it is well worth it!

Workload at exchange school:

High! workload is pretty intense as you end up doing 6 subjects in almost the same period that you would do 3. This can be a positive or negative depending on the way you see it. To me it was a positive because I got to do more subjects. However, if you have plans to travel a lot while there, I would just do 2 subjects a term.

Accommodation options:

Accommodation is cheap, and affordable. Transportation is the problem. So I would just try and stay as close to school as possible. If you manage to find a place in Station 9, you’re golden. Trust me, that’s where you want to be! If not, just try and get as close to school as possible and make sure you check to see that there is a Bus that gets you there, and start looking early! I would do it in parallel with applying for the visa, get on the Facebook pages and ask around to see if there are outgoing exchange students subletting their place.

Campus Facilities

Great facilities. Wi-Fi everywhere. Team rooms to do group work in. Large cafeteria. Free food and alcohol every Friday (Fuqua Friday). Food wise, there isn’t too much to choose from. There’s the fox centre and the Bryan centre. I personally got sick of the food by the end!

Careers Services:

I didn’t really make much use of them. There wasn’t anything specifically for exchange students to use career service. What I did do and encourage is to sign up to as many outside events as possible. There are tons of companies coming in daily, many esteemed guest speakers etc. Make the most of it, it is very beneficial.

Student life:

It’s like any MBA school student life. Lots of work, and lots of parties 😊 Everyone is very down to earth, friendly and helpful. Easy to just fit right in!
Things AGSM MBA students should consider/be aware of when applying to this school for exchange:

High workload. However the accommodation is cheap, and the students and clubs make life at Fuqua very interesting. It is an experience that I will remember forever!

Highlight:

If you are here around September, go to Camp Out! It is not to be missed, Its basically an overnight party where everyone sleeps in tents. The biggest highlight for me would have to be the lifelong friends that I have made on this trip (both local students and other exchange students). There were 60 exchange students from various countries in our group, so make the most of the networking opportunities!
