Visa Application:
Nothing to “complain”
Process is perfectly organized from NYU Stern’s side and ran very smoothly

Enrolment Procedure and recommended subjects:
Do some research on the professors teaching at NYU Stern. Some of them are very well-known and very good.
You usually get into these subject which is very fortunate e.g. Damodaran in Corporate Finance.
Consider taking 1.5 credit courses that are meant to be taken in combination e.g. Luxury Marketing and Building Luxury Brands.

Workload at exchange school:
Similar to AGSM. More books to read and reading summaries to deliver as part of your grades. Overall not more workload then in AGSM even if you take 15 Stern credits (required by Stern are 12 credits)

Accommodation options:
“Palladium” is one of the dormitories offered by NYU and pricy (US$ ~8500 for the term) and rather small. Manhattan does not have spacious apartments but you can get furnished places (e.g. Studios) for US$ ~9000 for the term within 20 blocks of NYU which would be my preferred option. Happy to help out with finding agents if needed.

Campus Facilities
Everything you expect from business school campus and very good location. Bookstore with complete range of required books around the corner. You need to buy the books and syllabus for the courses which can be up to $400 per course combined.
Gym in the dormitory building, open to all NYU students, even if you don’t live there.

Careers Services:
Limited access to Career Services while at Stern but full access to the club which provide a lot of networking options, as well.

Student life:
New York/Manhattan is a fantastic city with vast possibilities to enjoy yourself.
Make use of club membership (for life) to mingle with the local students as the student cohort is rather anonymous due to the size of the program.

Things AGSM MBA students should consider/be aware of when applying to this school for exchange:
School is especially good in Finance.
Expenses are similar to Sydney, not cheaper at all but more variety in options to spend.
Bring an empty suitcase to shop.
Come in the spring term (Jan-May) to get the good weather and springbreak.

Highlight:
Too many to mention one or two:
The city, its friendly people, the nightlife and cultural landscape, a very well-known and connected uni, good starting point to explore the US especially the north-eastern part, close ties to the other top business schools in the country e.g. Harvard, Yale, Booth, Kellogg etc.
