GRANTS AND HONORS

Nominated for an Ig Nobel in Finance for my work on heuristics in financial markets; I kid you not: <https://www.ft.com/content/eec04586-8b4d-11e6-8cb7-e7ada1d123b1>

“A whimsical curiosity about the world is something to be encouraged. No wonder that the credo of the Ig Nobel prizes is that they should make you laugh, then make you think. ... Psychologists Bernhard Borges, Dan Goldstein, Andreas Ortmann and Gerd Gigerenzer found they could construct a market-beating portfolio of stocks by stopping people on street corners, showing them a list of company names, and asking which they recognised. Surely an Ig Nobel in finance?”

Coordinator, UNSW Business School Research Network “Behavioral Insights for Business & Policy” (with Hazel Bateman, John Roberts, Ben Greiner, Gigi Foster, Elise Payzan-LeNestour, Sarah Walker). Valued at > $50,000 dollars ($25,000 guaranteed for 2016 and 2017 each, plus extra support for roundtables)
