2.3 Summary of Course

Strategic marketing is a capstone for the marketing major, providing students with the opportunity to develop an overall understanding of marketing now and into the future. This final year course aims to integrate student’s prior learning with an understanding of strategic decision making frameworks and approaches – developing an overarching appreciation of the scope of marketing and its contribution to the success of an organization. Strategic thinking deals with the future where uncertainty and change is a given. In keeping with the aim of strategic marketing to foster strategic thinkers the course will be delivered in a ‘flipped mode’. Here there will be course facilitators rather lecturers/tutors. There are no formal lectures and the onus is on students to ‘get up to speed’ with that week’s topics and relevant ideas. This approach requires students to come fully prepared to the workshop/seminars and to actively engage with the different activities and tasks during the face-to-face time. In sum, strategic marketing enables students to take a broader look at how the various marketing disciplinary elements interact, evaluate complex situations and understand how marketing as a discipline will meet the challenges of the evolving domestic and global market places.

2.4 Course Aims and Relationship to Other Courses
This course is a final year course of the undergraduate marketing major exploring, evaluating, and developing an understanding of how to manage innovative and competitive marketing strategies. The central focus is on strategic marketing, developing research and thinking skills that can help achieve planned performance outcomes.

There is significant level of assumed knowledge in marketing associated with this course. Students are required to have completed Mark1012, Mark2051 and Mark2052. In order to gain the most from this course it is recommended that you also have completed five or six marketing courses in total.

The overall objectives of the course are:
- to explore issues in strategic marketing decision making and planning;
- to introduce some of the practical tools enabling development, evaluation and implementation of effective marketing strategies;
- to provide theories, frameworks and examples relating to the management of critical aspects of strategic marketing activity and
- to provide an opportunity to evaluate strategy options in a systematic fashion.

Strategic Marketing is the capstone course for the undergraduate Marketing stream. It will draw on the diverse knowledge and skills developed in all the previous marketing subjects.

2.5 Student Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this capstone marketing course you should have:

SLO 1. Acquired insights into strategic marketing in the local and global business environments.
- Developed an understanding of how the various sub-areas of marketing knowledge work together to provide depth to situation analyses.
- Increased your awareness of the challenges facing marketers in meeting the needs of future markets by exploring specific situations / cases.
- Heightened your awareness of marketing’s contribution to society through discussion of ethical and professional conduct and issues in sustainability, environmental concerns and corporate social responsibility (monitoring and evaluating current media stories).

SLO 2. Developed critical thinking skills in relation to both tactical and strategic decision making and implementation.
- Acquired an understanding of a repertoire of tools available to support the development of sustainable competitive advantage.

SLO 3. Developed team decision making skills: communication; planning; and management.
- Demonstrated high levels of task and self-management (pre-preparation, in-class activities and project task).

SLO 4. Strengthened your ability to explore and evaluate marketing situations with less than perfect knowledge.
• Understood the nature of ‘ill-defined’ problems by evaluating case examples.
• Refined your information literacy skills.
• Further developed your written and verbal communication skills.

The Course Learning Outcomes are what you should be able to DO by the end of this course if you participate fully in learning activities and successfully complete the assessment items.

The Learning Outcomes in this course also help you to achieve some of the overall Program Learning Goals and Outcomes for all undergraduate students in the Business School. Program Learning Goals are what we want you to BE or HAVE by the time you successfully complete your degree (e.g. ‘be an effective analyst and strategic thinker’). You demonstrate this by achieving specific Program Learning Outcomes - what you are able to DO by the end of your degree (e.g. ‘think with a strategic mind set’).

For more information on the Undergraduate Program Learning Goals and Outcomes, see Part B of the course outline.

3 LEARNING AND TEACHING ACTIVITIES

3.1 Approach to Learning and Teaching in the Course

Strategic Marketing will most likely be taken in your final undergraduate year. It represents the transition from ‘student’ to ‘practitioner’ and as such seeks to enhance life-long skills in learning. There is a high degree of independence expected in your approach to mastering this subject. A marketing manager needs to be flexible, creative and thorough. Above all they need to have an ability to work cooperatively, as the delivery of a ‘product’ requires both coordination and collaboration from within the organization and with other external players in the market. To this end, there is an emphasis on self-directed, co-operative learning and group-work in this course.

This course will be taught in ‘flipped classroom’ format and rely heavily on students undertaking set preparation work prior to their workshop/seminar. It is a challenging course requiring consistent weekly attention - it cannot be left to the last minute, nor can it be successfully completed with rote learning. There will be readings and assigned text chapters to provide the foundation for the individual student’s further exploration of current issues in the wider media (academic and professional sources) of the ideas and concepts canvassed. You will be encouraged to research deeply, to evaluate, think and then to encapsulate the results clearly and succinctly in written or oral communications. It is a given that student involvement has a strong link to learning outcomes; therefore students need to actively participate in all activities. The workshop/ seminars are designed to encourage deeper exploration of core concepts through both individual and group activities focussing on real world scenarios, a simulation and the assigned cases. The issues discussed may be contentious, complex and challenging and very seldom is there a ‘right’ answer. The strategic marketing course is a great opportunity to take ownership of your learning, helping to develop confidence to tackle uncertainty and change.

Please note:

The self-directed learning prior to class replaces traditional lectures in this course. The preparation readings and tasks are expected to take a minimum of an hour.

3.2 Learning Activities and Teaching Strategies

My philosophy on teaching is best summed in feedback given through CATEI: “a very open participative / collaborative approach to teaching”; “encourages critical thinking and the application of theory to practical experiences”. I see myself and my co-facilitators as your ‘coach’, particularly as you are final year students who can bring your own knowledge, skills and strengths to class.

Moodle e-learning will provide a communication medium to support all aspects of the course. Each week’s preparation requirements will be posted one week prior to the workshop/seminar. However, the most important learning platform in this course is the weekly two hour interactive session to be held in the ‘flipped classroom’ - a dedicated active learning space designed to facilitate peer-to-peer learning. Here there will be a variety of activities ranging from short in-class tests to assess your understanding of the preparation material, through to case analyses and sessions where you are able to run the simulation both individually and as a group (see 4.2).

There are 12 workshop/seminars (starting in Week 1 and finishing in Week 13. There is no seminar in Week 10 due to the Monday public holiday (however your individual case write up is due by Thursday of Week 10). Given the nature of the ‘flipped classroom’ you will be required to attend each week for the full 2 hours. In-class tests and other assessment exercises may be held at different times during the class. The 3 tests/assessments that count towards your workshop/seminar activities and tests will be randomly selected (these may not necessarily be your three best results) from across the 6 held between weeks 2 to 7.

The workshop seminars (in no particular order) will have the common elements of:

- pre-preparation individual tests or tasks to evaluate your level of preparation
- discussion / application
- debrief / follow-up

The first six weeks are designed to develop a rapid overview of the theories and frameworks associated with strategic marketing. The course will then move to exploration and application of this more traditional understanding of strategy to a business simulation. The final section of the course will further explore emerging issues that are shaping strategic marketing today and into the future. For instance, issues within cases may include how social-cultural and ethical factors impact on the strategic choices being made by organizations.
4 ASSESSMENT

4.1 Formal Requirements

Your regular, punctual and continuous attendance at workshop/seminars is expected in this course. University regulations indicate that if students attend less than 80% of scheduled classes, they may be refused final assessment.

In order to pass this course, you must:
- Prepare for, and be actively involved in workshop/seminars
- achieve a composite mark of at least 50; and
- make a satisfactory attempt at all assessment tasks (see below).
- Achieve a satisfactory level of performance in the Final Exam. Any student having an overall mark of 50% or more, but a below satisfactory level of performance (i.e. 47%) in the Final Exam, may be given an UF grade

4.a Workshop/seminar activities, tasks and tests

Format: Individual tests or tasks that assess your level of preparation. They can be a mix of styles: multiple choice and short answer.

Timing: These can be scheduled at any time during the workshop/seminar (up to 15 minutes duration). A separate recap will be required each week.

Weighting: 3 randomly selected tests (from 6 overall) will be selected - 15% of final grade.

Please note - poor attendance will impact on the awarding of these marks. Tests / tasks cannot be ‘made-up’ should a class be missed due to miss-adventure; however another test can be substituted.
4.b Workshop/seminar case preparation and presentation
Format: Individual case preparation (due Week 10).
Written case analysis (see Moodle for details in Week 1). To be submitted via Turnitin (on course Moodle site).
Weighting: 15% of final grade.
Format: Group case presentation (as scheduled in one of Weeks 11, 12 or 13).
In-class presentation (10 minutes) and 2 page class hand out (reference list separate). Group to hand in to facilitator the following: copies of any visual aid material used in the presentation, a 1 page plan of the presentation, a copy of the 2 page handout and reference list.
All group members are to speak.
Weighting: 10% of final grade.
Format: Class feedback on case presentations.
A feedback sheet for Weeks 11, 12 and 13 is to be completed giving constructive evaluation and feedback on the case presentations. To be handed to the facilitator that session.
Weighting: 5% of final grade.

4.c Individual and Group Simulation
Format: Individual simulation preparation (Week 7).
A written reflection - details to be listed on Moodle (for class discussion in Week 8).
Weighting: 10% of final grade.
Format: Group simulation practice and competitive runs (Weeks 8 & 9). A written debrief of group performance due Week 9 -- details to be listed on Moodle. Submission for this debrief will be via Turnitin Moodle.
Weighting: 10% of final grade for debrief and 5% of final grade for simulation performance relative to the class – given significant effort then lowest score 3/5).

4.d Final Exam - To be held in the exam period.
Format: A pre-prescribed case and short answer questions.
Weighting: 30% of final grade.

4.4 Assignment Submission Procedure
All individual work will be submitted via Turnitin on Moodle. Only one upload will be allowed for assignments so please DO NOT submit a draft as you will not be able to resubmit. It is expected that you are familiar with the need to avoid plagiarism (should you be in any doubt then seek guidance before you submit as penalties will apply to any material not appropriately referenced (in accordance with the university guidelines).

Unless otherwise stated group work will be given to your facilitator at the time of the scheduled activity.

4.5 Late Submission
Late submission will incur a penalty of 10% of the percentage weight of the assessment component or part thereof per day (including weekends) after the due date, and will not be accepted after 5 working days. An assignment is considered late if either the paper copy or the electronic copy has not been submitted on time.

Quality Assurance
The Business School is actively monitoring student learning and quality of the student experience in all its programs. A random selection of completed assessment tasks may be used for quality assurance, such as to determine the extent to which program learning goals are being achieved. The information is required for accreditation purposes, and aggregated findings will be used to inform changes aimed at improving the quality of Business School programs. All material used for such processes will be treated as confidential.

6 COURSE EVALUATION AND DEVELOPMENT

Each year feedback is sought from students and other stakeholders about the courses offered in the School and continual improvements are made based on this feedback. UNSW’s Course and Teaching Evaluation and Improvement (CATEI) Process is one of the ways in which student evaluative feedback is gathered. In this course, we will seek your feedback through a survey specifically designed to assess your experience in the ‘flipped classroom’. Feedback from previous students indicated strategic marketing was challenging given that there were not always clear guidelines and uncertainty. As a result of this feedback, the course has been redesigned to enable greater opportunity to develop a deeper understanding through group discussion and activity in a classroom dedicated to support peer-to-peer interaction.

8 PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS AND OUTCOMES

The Business School Program Learning Goals reflect what we want all students to BE or HAVE by the time they successfully complete their degree, regardless of their individual majors or specialisations. For example, we want all our graduates to HAVE a high level of business knowledge, and a sound awareness of ethical, social, cultural and environmental implications of business. As well, we want all our graduates to BE effective problem-solvers, communicators and team participants. These are our overall learning goals for you and are sought by employers.

You can demonstrate your achievement of these goals by the specific outcomes you achieve by the end of your degree (e.g. be able to analyse and research business problems and propose well-justified solutions). Each course contributes to your development of two or more program learning goals/outcomes by providing opportunities for you to practise these skills and to be assessed and receive feedback.

Program Learning Goals for undergraduate and postgraduate students cover the same key areas (application of business knowledge, critical thinking, communication and teamwork, ethical, social and environmental responsibility), which are key goals for all Business students and essential for success in a globalised world. However, the specific outcomes reflect different expectations for these levels of study.

We strongly advise you to choose a range of courses which assist your development of these skills, e.g., courses assessing written and oral communication skills, and to keep a record of your achievements against the Program Learning Goals as part of your portfolio.

9 ACADEMIC HONESTY AND PLAGIARISM
The University regards plagiarism as a form of academic misconduct, and has very strict rules regarding plagiarism. For UNSW policies, penalties, and information to help you avoid plagiarism see: https://student.unsw.edu.au/plagiarism as well as the guidelines in the online ELISE tutorials for all new UNSW students: http://subjectguides.library.unsw.edu.au/elise

To see if you understand plagiarism, do this short quiz:

For information on how to acknowledge your sources and reference correctly, see:
https://student.unsw.edu.au/harvard-referencing

For the Business School Harvard Referencing Guide, see the Business Referencing and Plagiarism webpage (Business > Students > Learning support > Resources > Referencing and plagiarism).

10 STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES AND CONDUCT
Students are expected to be familiar with and adhere to university policies in relation to class attendance and general conduct and behaviour, including maintaining a safe, respectful environment; and to understand their obligations in relation to workload, assessment and keeping informed.

Information and policies on these topics can be found in UNSW Current Students ‘Managing your Program’ webpages: https://student.unsw.edu.au/program.

10.1 Workload
It is expected that you will spend at least 10 to 11 hours per week studying this course. This time should be made up of reading, research, working on exercises and problems, online activities and attending classes. In periods where you need to complete assignments or prepare for examinations, the workload may be greater. Over-commitment has been a cause of failure for many students. You should take the required workload into account when planning how to balance study with employment and other activities.

We strongly encourage you to connect with your Moodle course websites in the first week of semester. Local and international research indicates that students who engage early and often with their course website are more likely to pass their course.

Information on expected workload: https://student.unsw.edu.au/uoc

10.2 Attendance
Your regular and punctual attendance at lectures and seminars is expected in this course. University regulations indicate that if students attend less than 80% of scheduled classes they may be refused final assessment. For more information, see:
https://student.unsw.edu.au/attendance

10.3 General Conduct and Behaviour
You are expected to conduct yourself with consideration and respect for the needs of your fellow students and teaching staff. Conduct which unduly disrupts or interferes with a class, such as ringing or talking on mobile phones, is not acceptable and students may be asked to leave the class. More information on student conduct is available at: https://student.unsw.edu.au/conduct

10.4 Occupational Health and Safety
UNSW Policy requires each person to work safely and responsibly, in order to avoid personal injury and to protect the safety of others. For more information, see http://www.ohs.unsw.edu.au.

10.5 Keeping Informed
You should take note of all announcements made in lectures, tutorials or on the course website. From time to time, the University will send important announcements to your university e-mail address without providing you with a paper copy. You will be deemed to have received this information. It is also your responsibility to keep the University informed of all changes to your contact details.

11 SPECIAL CONSIDERATION
You must submit all assignments and attend all examinations scheduled for your course. You should seek assistance early if you suffer illness or misadventure which affects your course progress.

General Information on Special Consideration for Undergraduate courses:
1. All applications for special consideration must be lodged online through myUNSW within 3 working days of the assessment (Log into myUNSW and go to My Student Profile tab > My Student Services > Online Services > Special Consideration). You will then need to submit the originals or certified copies of your completed Professional Authority form (pdf - download here) and other supporting documentation to Student Central. For more information, please study carefully in advance the instructions and conditions at: https://student.unsw.edu.au/special-consideration
2. Please note that documentation may be checked for authenticity and the submission of false documentation will be treated as academic misconduct. The School may ask to see the original or certified copy.
3. Applications will not be accepted by teaching staff. The lecturer-in-charge will be automatically notified when you lodge an online application for special consideration.
4. Decisions and recommendations are only made by lecturers-in-charge (or by the Faculty Panel in the case of UG final exam special considerations), not by tutors.
5. Applying for special consideration does not automatically mean that you will be granted a supplementary exam or other concession.
6. Special consideration requests do not allow lecturers-in-charge to award students additional marks.

Business School Policy on requests for Special Consideration for Final Exams in Undergraduate Courses:
The lecturer-in-charge will need to be satisfied on each of the following before supporting a request for special consideration:

1. Does the medical certificate contain all relevant information? For a medical certificate to be accepted, the degree of illness, and impact on the student, must be stated by the medical practitioner (severe, moderate, mild). A certificate without this will not be valid.

2. Has the student performed satisfactorily in the other assessment items?
   Satisfactory performance would require at least 45% in each task/assignment and meeting the obligation to have attended 80% of all workshop/seminars.

3. Does the student have a history of previous applications for special consideration?
   A history of previous applications may preclude a student from being granted special consideration.

Special Consideration and the Final Exam in undergraduate courses:
Applications for special consideration in relation to the final exam are considered by a Business School Faculty panel to which lecturers-in-charge provide their recommendations for each request. If the Faculty panel grants a special consideration request, this will entitle the student to sit a supplementary examination. No other form of consideration will be granted. The following procedures will apply:

1. Supplementary exams will be scheduled centrally and will be held approximately two weeks after the formal examination period. The dates for Business School supplementary exams for Semester 2, 2015 are:
   - 8th December – exams for the School of Accounting
   - 9th December – exams for all Schools except Accounting and Economics
   - 10th December – exams for the School of Economics
   If a student lodges a special consideration for the final exam, they are stating they will be available on the above dates. Supplementary exams will not be held at any other time.

2. Where a student is granted a supplementary examination as a result of a request for special consideration, the student’s original exam (if completed) will be ignored and only the mark achieved in the supplementary examination will count towards the final grade. Failure to attend the supplementary exam will not entitle the student to have the original exam paper marked and may result in a zero mark for the final exam.

If you attend the regular final exam, you are extremely unlikely to be granted a supplementary exam. Hence if you are too ill to perform up to your normal standard in the regular final exam, you are strongly advised not to attend. However, granting of a supplementary exam in such cases is not automatic. You would still need to satisfy the criteria stated above.
