MASTER OF COMMERCE | SPECIALISATIONS

Master of Commerce - Banking
Growing uncertainty over the future of world economy has posed significant challenges to the dynamic banking environment. If you're passionate about the issues driving domestic and global financial markets, this is the specialisation for you.

Master of Commerce - Business Strategy
Many factors affect a business organisation and its decision-making process. By understanding the strategic behaviour among firms and acquiring the tools for effective business decision-making, you'll be able to think functionally and act strategically.

Master of Commerce - Economics and Finance
Capital, futures, equities, derivatives, hedging and foreign exchange are important functional elements of the financial markets. By studying this specialisation, you'll learn how to use economic theory and economic models to understand the financial markets and their products, and analyse decision-making under market risk and uncertainty.

Master of Commerce - Enterprise Systems and Business Design
As technology advances, firms are increasingly looking to enterprise systems to run their business more efficiently and effectively. This specialisation is designed to give you the skills and knowledge required for the strategic planning and implementation of enterprise systems to support business operations.

Master of Commerce - Finance
Finance plays a key role in today's business. With this specialisation, you'll learn the key aspects of finance and financial decision-making related to portfolio selection, mergers and acquisitions, capital budgeting, and option pricing and hedging. You'll have the knowledge and capacity to meet the financial challenges faced by organisations.

Master of Commerce - Human Resource Management
The best strategy will only succeed if the in an organisation staff decide to commit to it, and if they have the right skills to work collectively to make it happen. This specialisation provides a strong practical and theoretical grounding for understanding the policies and procedures associated with the strategic management of an organisation's employees.

Master of Commerce - International Business
As business becomes increasingly global, so will the challenges faced by corporations. Explore the key concepts and principles that deal with the development, strategy and management of multinational organisations, and learn how to manage businesses strategically in a changing global environment.
Master of Commerce - Management Accounting
Business leaders need to know how to use financial information to make strategic decisions. By studying Management Accounting, which combines Accounting, Finance and Management, you'll gain the tools and techniques to analyse financial information and formulate strategies to drive business success.

Master of Commerce - Marketing
The marketing of any business is critical to its success. Gain an insight into the marketing world through market research and analysis, e-marketing and new product development, and develop the knowledge and practice to become a more coherent marketer.

Master of Commerce - Organisation and Management Studies
Successful managers know how to establish the most productive relationships between organisations and people. Gain an in-depth understanding of management principles and their applications, and develop the skills and capacity required to work as an effective manager.

Master of Commerce - Risk Management
To succeed in a volatile business environment, companies must deploy risk management strategies to minimise the risks incurred in running a business. This specialisation focuses on the management of operational risks that arise from an organisation’s day-to-day activities through its people, systems and processes, and the challenges associated with their effective management.